CIVIL WAR ERA

By EDITH LaFRANCIS

Agawam has never been an isolated town, but always a part of events going on around it.

During the two decades before Abraham Lincoln became president, the Springfield area was a busy place. Riverboats were shuttling between Hartford, Springfield and Holyoke, towing loaded barges. Passenger steamers ran on schedules to meet boats from New York. The railroad, when it was built in 1844, began to cut into the river trade yet it increased the general activity and growth of Springfield.

Political tension was mounting, with the slavery question coming to a head. These were the days of the "lyceums", debating societies, anti-slavery meetings, temperance organizations. There were musicals, balls and military parades. Jenny Lind sang in Springfield in 1851. The first national horse show was here in 1853. John Brown, famous abolitionist, lived in the city as a wool merchant and organized the "Gileadites" to resist the capture of fugitive slaves. There were men from this area in the Kansas fight of 1851. Newspapers flourished here, being delivered to outlying towns by Post Riders.

People in this vicinity felt intimate interest in the national election of 1860, for George Ashmun of Springfield, a man of state and national reputation, was, through the efforts of Samuel Bowles, made president of the Republican Convention in Chicago at which Abraham Lincoln was nominated. When Lincoln made his speech of acceptance, Mr. Bowles and Mr. Ashmun were standing near him. Mr. Bowles wrote that Mr. Lincoln's face, "which in repose seemed made of bronze, was at the instant of speaking lighted up and the warmth of a great heart shown out of every feature." After Lincoln's election it was Mr. Ashmun who persuaded Stephen A. Douglas, political rival, to back the Lincoln administration. The last written words of Abraham Lincoln written just before he left for the theatre on the night of his death, were in a note making an appointment to see Mr. Ashmun in the morning. The note and the memory returned to Springfield.

Agawam had given the lives of twenty eight men in the Civil War, and was by these things even more closely linked with events far beyond the boundaries of the town.

VETERANS INFORMATION

Veterans receiving pension or compensation checks are again asking the Veterans Administration this time of the year "Is my VA check considered to be income and must I report it on my income tax return?"

The answer, VA says, is no.

Veterans benefits are tax free. These benefits which do not need to be reported include disability compensation and pension, dividends on GI insurance policies, education and training allowances, subsistence allowances for disabled veterans receiving vocational training, grants on homes for "wheelchair living," grants for motor vehicles for physically handicapped veterans, and death benefits paid to survivors.

The only exception is interest earned by GI life insurance dividends left on deposit with the VA. It is only the interest earned by such dividends, not the dividend, which is taxable and must be reported, the VA points out.

Dispose Of Your Christmas Tree

Mr. Dominick Ricco, inspector for the Agawam Health Dept., has announced that, a general survey of the town shows there are many Christmas trees still in backyards.

The Town requests that you burn your Christmas tree, or have it picked up in the rubbish collection, to eliminate the breeding of gypsy moths.

As Spring approaches, even one small tan-blotch egg can hatch from 500 to 1,000 moths. These egg blotches are hardly discernible so you may have many of them on your tree.

Burn your tree, or watch for the next rubbish collection and put it on the tree belt.

On Dean's List

LEONARD K. CHAREST

Leonard K. Charest, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Charest of 97 Silver Street, Agawam, has been recently named to the Dean's List by President Lederle of The University of Massachusetts.

Lenny graduated from Agawam High School in 1960 where he served on several social clubs and committees and held the offices of treasurer of his class, president of the Pro Merito Honor Society, captain of patrol of the Student Council, president of the weight-lifting team, and captain of the football team. He is a political science major at the university.

The University Choir, under the direction of Dr. Elwood Keister, has scheduled a two-to-three performance-a-day swing through high schools, churches and military posts in New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Washington, D. C., Virginia and North Carolina.

The choir, composed of top men and women vocalists from all colleges in the University, performs sacred music, folk songs, contemporary compositions, spirituals and novelties.

styles are now available including deluxe keycases, billfolds, purses and jewel cases, eyeglass and cigarette cases. There are more than 800 employed at Agawam, Mass., and in warehouses strategically located throughout the country for rapid distribution of merchandise. Miss Julia B. Buxton, civic leader, is treasurer of the company.

The plan provides that retirement income will be paid directly by Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company to retired employees. All salaried employees and salesmen who will have been employed for ten years or more at age 65 will receive benefits, the entire cost of which will be paid for by Buxton, Inc. The amount of the income will be determined by the years of service and the earnings of the retiring employees. The plan was prepared with the assistance of Pension Associates, Inc., of Springfield.

In announcing the plan to the employees, Mr. Collings said that at present Buxton, Inc., maintains accident and sickness, life insurance and Blue Cross-Blue Shield programs. The continued growth of the company now makes it possible to assume the additional responsibility of a retirement plan.

Little Alex Baker Is New Bright Light In Coach Anastas' Eye

Hard Working Winger Scores Both Goals Against EL

By BUCKY O'BRIEN

The Agawam High hockey team has finally arrived. Yes, the rejuvenated high school hockey club is really starting to roll. Ever since the tireless coach has made ice available for these kids their efforts have been very rewarding.

Last Wednesday night at the Coliseum against heavily favored East Longmeadow, his boys battled the league leaders to a furious 2-2 deadlock. Every kid on the club deserves to take a bow for their maximum effort in this one.

Particular credit should go to little Alex Baker, a pudgy right winger who just doesn't know what it means to quit. Alex, who doesn't claim to have any hockey ability to speak of, lets his endurance and personal desire speak for himself. Of course he is blessed with a moderate amount of ability or he would never have achieved what he did Wednesday night.

Alex scored both goals for the Brownies which led Anastas to quip, "If all the kids had his desire this club would be tough to beat". He continued, "I am not complaining about the rest of the boys mind you. It is just that in the case of Baker he has that something extra that is difficult to put your finger on. He is a wonderful boy and I am sure glad to have him playing for me," concluded the excited mentor.

Roger Waite was his usual sensational self when the going got rough. Roger assumed the blame for both goals which is an indication as to the type of character he is. He blames nobody but himself. Roger was sitting in the dressing room after the game rather dejectedly, apparently thinking about those two goals which he felt he should have stopped. Pete Egan, the big lanky durable defenseman, walked over to Roger and said, "Forget it Rog, that second one was my fault. I am sorry but we will pin their ears back next time". With kids of this character playing for you how can you miss? Everyone is always willing to assume the blame.

Rich Nacewicz, the rock 'em, roll 'em forward for the Brownies, was bouncing the enemy around all night. When big Rich would come bullying down the ice like Jim Taylor, the boys would follow right behind him and into the zone of their opponents. His play was very important in this "moral victory". Richy's aggressive style was a little more than the boys from East Longmeadow had planned on.

Ollie Seibert and Bob Cahill combined on defense to stop enemy rushes all evening. Ollie, who can skate better than anyone in the league, was particularly brilliant in the closing stages of the game when the pressure was mounting and the going was getting rough.

Santos DeMichelle, the good looking muscular winger, missed a golden opportunity to sew the game up in the latter stages of the third period on a break away but waited a second too late to shoot and the rival gola tender pounced on the puck. Santos has been a pleasant surprise this year. His fierce body checking kept the visitors at bay most of the night.

Dave Robinson and Billy Feranti, the two young forwards, played well also and with any kind of luck would have grabbed the headlines themselves. Hockey is a funny game, there are not many points scored so as a result a lot of guys work goes completely unnoticed. So don't ever overlook the work of any of these kids. They still think they have a shot at that title and they are out to prove it.

One of the pitfalls of being a sportswriter is the fact that sometimes you have to write your story a week in advance. Such is the case of this story. At this writing I do not know the outcome of the Westfield game but I will go out on the limb and pick the Brownies. This prophecy could come and haunt me. But it wouldn't be the first time or the last.

SPORTSMEN'S CORNER

By Bill Chiba

Senate Bill Number 1 is an act relating to the promotion and development of the Marine Fisheries, Recreational boating and providing for Public Access to great ponds and to Coastal Waters of the commonwealth. This bill is based on the report of the Marine Advisory Commission, and the recommendations to Governor Volpe by the Public Access Committee, composed of leaders of the Massachusetts Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, State Council of Sportsmen's Clubs, Carling Conservation Club, Hub

Chapter of the Izaak Walton League of America, Massachusetts Saltwater Alliance, Massachusetts Audubon Society, Massachusetts Bay Yacht Clubs, New England Outdoor Writers Association, and the Massachusetts Council of Skin Diving Clubs. This is undoubtedly the most important bill ever presented to the Legislature in the interests of conservationists, sportsmen, and boaters.

Hearing Set

Senate Bill No. 1 and Senate Bill No. 252 which calls for a comprehensive study of the coastal wetlands of Massachusetts by the Department of Natural Resources will be considered at a public hearing before the Joint Legislative Committee on Natural Resources at the Gardner Auditorium, State House, on Wednesday, February 28, at 1:30 p.m. Because of the Committee's interest in the marine resources of the Commonwealth, the hearing has been scheduled with sufficient advance notice so that all parties concerned can have an opportunity to be heard on these major proposals.

Every Boating Club, and every sporting club in the area should send a representative down to this hearing. Senate No. 1 is what the sportsmen and boater has been looking for these past years. It is good healthy legislation and a big step forward in gaining public access to great ponds and coastal waters, plus a chance to enlarge our Department of Law Enforcement.

This writer plans to attend this hearing, anyone interested in riding down to Boston contact me. Glad to have you along.

First Invitational

The Agawam Junior Rifle Club, which is sponsored by the Agawam Sportsmen Club, held its first invitational rifle match Saturday. The Stratford Police Athletic League sent up eight Junior shooters and 6 sub-junior riflemen. The

Registrations Open For Fall At Little Yankee Kindergarten

Mrs. Harry Leonardi and Mrs. Zaven Vorperian, Directors of the Little Yankee Kindergarten, announced today that registrations are now being accepted for the fall season. The kindergarten, housed in the Agawam Congregational Church, Main St., is open to children who will be four years old on or before March 1st of this year.

The school stresses the child's responsibility for himself and strives to help him to develop mentally, socially, physically and emotionally, thus laying the foundation for good school behavior. Children are given an opportunity to accumulate a store of experiences and understandings so that they bring an adequate background to the learnings which will be expected of them as first graders. Experiences are offered the child in music and dramatic play, reading and number readiness, health and safety, language and art science, and social studies and play and games.

Directing the school program again next season will be the school directors, Mrs. Leonardi and Mrs. Vorperian and a teacher, Dr. Eber Wein will act as the school's consulting physician and Mrs. Leonardi the school nurse.

Registration and "Come See" mornings will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesdays, from 9-10:30 during February and March. Parents and children will have an opportunity to view the school program and to talk with the school directors. School enrollment is limited and interested parents are urged to register children promptly in order to avoid disappointment. Further information and registration blanks may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Leonardi or Mrs. Vorperian, both of Silver Lake Drive.

Dateline Washington . . .

By CONGRESSMAN THOMAS P. O'NEILL, M.C.

U.N. Bonds For Peace

The United States need the United Nations as a framework for negotiations where East and West can keep on talking instead of fighting. It needs the U.N. for an instrument for defusing the crisis attending decolonization. It needs the U.N. as a nucleus of the world order which must in time replace the present system of heavily armed, competing sovereignties.

President Kennedy has asked Congress for authority to purchase $100 million of U.N. Bonds to help meet a financial crisis due largely to extraordinary expenses which it incurred in fulfilling the pledges in its Charter to secure peace, progress and human rights.

As President Kennedy has pointed out, failure of Congress to approve his request "would serve the interests of the Soviet Union, which has been particularly opposed to the operation in the Congo and which voted against this plan as part of the consistent Communist effort to undermine the U. N. and undercut its new secretary general."

This proposal does not establish a precedent. That was established when this country granted a loan of $65 million to the U.N. to build its headquarters in New York. Repayments have been made on schedule.

In terms of finances we shall spend this year nearly one-half of the Federal Budget for national defense. This authorization represents only an investment of one-tenth of one percent of that budget in the peace-keeping capacity of the U.N.

Purchase of U.N. bonds would be an investment in an institution that still remains a hope for averting the tragedy of a general war as the U.N.'s effectiveness and existence are an essential part of the machinery to bring peace out of this world of danger and discord.

It is impossible to say where or when the U.N. may be called on again for emergency action to preserve or restore peace, therefore, the U.N. must not die or languish.

Congressional approval of this authorization will frustrate the Soviet attempt to starve the U.N. into submission, and will preserve the U.N. for its vital executive role in international politics dedicated to bringing about disarmament and world peace.
